

Non-Defining Relative Clauses 12

Ruth is writing an email to her friend, Andy. Help her to complete the email message using non-defining relative clauses. Use the phrases from the note sheet below to help you. You will need to add relative pronouns 'who', 'which' and 'whose', and commas where necessary.

was a relief	I shall try to keep to the point
are apparently quite demanding	was a bit of a shock
was a horrible day	should be long and busy
already cycles to work every day	is a very stylish woman
is good	facilities are amazing
is directly opposite the new gym	I hear is very good

Hi Andy,

I tried to ring you a few times yesterday (1), which was a horrible day, but you weren't at home. Did you go out with Gemma? I remember you saying that you were going to see that new Italian film (2), which I hear is very good.

Well, the point of this message (3), which I shall try to keep to the point, is to tell you about my first day at my new job. It's very different from my old one (4), which is good! I was given a lot of hard work on my first day (5), which was a bit of a shock, but everything went well. I didn't know how welcoming the people would be but everyone was very polite to me and very friendly (6), which was a relief. My new colleague Samantha (7), who is a very stylish woman, really helped me to settle in.

The office is on the corner of Prince Street (8), which is directly opposite the new gym, so I'm really happy that I will be able to get there by bike. The gym (9), whose facilities are amazing, is open until 9pm so I will be able to go there after work. I'm sure cycling every day will have a good effect on me. My husband (10), who already cycles to work every day, says he will cycle to work with me.

I'm going to be responsible for all the new customers (11), who are apparently quite demanding, so my boss is going to give me some extra training in how to keep them happy.

Later in the week (12) , which should be long and busy, I'll write some more.

Bye for now,

Ruth

PEAK COURSES
鼎峰補習中心